GINO'S RULES

Gin012 is not simply a bar. It is a faith-based bar format. It is the place of the culture and of the cult of gin. Thus, we serve only gin. Only exceptions are wine and beer. Please do not insist asking for other drinks or spirits but gin. We take seriously our role as promoter of the gin culture. Gino does not like queues at the cash desk. Please ask for the bill at the table. Gino does not like frenzy. Preparing a good drink requires time. Be patient and chill-out. Drink purchase is required. It is a matter of style and good manners.

SIGNATURE COCKTAILS

Occhi da orientale

(Martini coupe) - 10€

Named after a splendid song of the Italian singer Daniele Silvestri, this drink is a metaphor of the meeting between the history of English gin and the alchemical wisdom of the east. Yuzu is a citrus fruit. The ume is a plum.

Plymouth, Hayman's Sloe, yuzu liquor, umeshu liquor.

Celery gimlet

(Short tumbler) - 9€

No drink is suited to the mastery of a barman like the gimlet. This is a very eclectic and extraordinary version of the drink that made the English Royal Navy one of the greatest army ever.

Greenhall's, maldon salt, lime, green chartreuse, celery bitter, sugar.

Coloniale

(High tumbler) - 10€

A drink that tells of exotic places, faraway destinations, foreign legions and new worlds to explore. Fresh, sweet, determined and with prickly aromatic hints.

Gin Puro, raspberry puree, pineapple extract, mango nectar, Blackwell Jamaican Ron.

Hanky Panky

(coupe cocktail glass) - 9€

A famous drink invented in 1920 by Ada Coleman, AKA "Coley", the first bar lady to manage the historical American bar at Savoy Hotel (London), a temple for the mixology of our times.

Beefeater 24, red vermouth, Fernet Branca, orange bitter.

Il Bel Paese

(coupe cocktail glass) - 10€

There are many things that the world envies to Italy. Among these are liquors. Any other country of the word can boast such a big number of liquors. These drink features two of these Italian excellences: Strega and Zucca.

Glass, Liqore Strega, Rabarbaro Zucca

Greta Garbo

(Short tumbler) - 8€

We love to think that if the "divine" were still alive, she would order a drink like this. Sophisticated, gentle but at the same time sour and a bit bitterish.

Cittadelle, home-made raspberry and basil shrub, lemon, Campari, sugar syrup, egg white.

Sinaloa

(High tumbler) - 10€

Not many people know that "El Mezcal" is a 37 inhabitants town of the Badiraguato municipality, Sinaloa state (Mexico). A state that has been masterfully narrated by Don Winslow, a genius of contemporary literature.

1984 Italian dry gin, Mezcal infused with "toasted" pineapple, sugar syrup, pineapple extract.

Boulevardier

(Short tumbler) - 10€

A 'twist on gin' of a classic that dates back to 1927. Instead of Kentucky Bourbon we use an incredible made in USA barreled gin.

Ginskey barrel aged, Campari, red vermouth, orange bitter.

Noisette

(Martini coupe) - 10€

A restyled martini in which a classic London Dry is blended with a walnut liquor made by the historical 'maison' Chartreuse, and few drops of chocolate bitter. To make is a bit sweeter, a rim of home-made chocolate on the glass.

Boodles, Eau de Noix Chartreux, chocolate bitter, chocolate rim.

Sudamericano

(Short tumbler) - 9€

It is neither a twist of a Negroni, nor a wrong Americano. It is a Sudamericano. That's it. Fresh and spicy (maybe aphrodisiac).

Martin Miller's, Ancho Reyes, red vermouth, Campari, soda.

John, Tom & Fizz (Collins) - 8€

Tom Collins, John Collins and Gin Fizz are must have drinks if you want to define yourself a real #ginaddicted.

Tom: Hayman's Old Tom Gin, lemon, sugar syrup, soda, angostura.

John: The Botanist Islay, lemon, sugar syrup, soda (Collin on the rocks).

Fizz: The Botanist Islay, lemon, sugar syrup, soda, egg white (Collin)

Gin Gin Mule

(Short tumbler) - 9€

A signature Gino's creation, a "grand-dame" of the local drinking culture. A juniper interpretation of the famed Moscow Mule. Mombasa Club, mint, ginger syrup, lime, ginger beer.

Il Bischero

(Short tumbler) - 9€

A Mediterranean drink that drives your soul to sunny summers, to out of town escapes during working weeks, to the scents of a time when we were all a bit more cheerful, ... "bischeri" in short!

Sabatini, fennel seeds syrup, fresh squeezed lemon, thyme perfume.

GIN & ALOE VERA TASTY & HEALTHY

Why Aloe Vera in mixology?

The simple acknowledgment that aloe vera is the most widely known plant for its healing properties is a sufficient reason to use it also in cocktail mixing. Its name is traced back to the Arabic "alua", i.e. bitter. Its "bitterish" flavor makes aloe an exciting ingredient for crafted drinks. Skeptical? Try to believe ...

Aloe ginger

(baloon glass) - 10€

A fresh, pleasant, sparkling drink with a slightly herbaceous aftertaste bestowed by the peach flavored aloe vera. Prosecco goes to emphasize the 'scratch' of ginger.

Big Gino, fresh ginger, aloe peach, prosecco, lemon.

Clover Aloe Club

(Coupe cocktail glass) - 10€

A 'revisit' of the famous Clover Club, a drink that dates back to 1917 named after the namesake club of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia. This one is enriched with the herbaceous flavor of aloe vera.

Gin Puro, lemon, aloe Berry, raspberry puree

GIN&THINK!

"Meditation gins" to drink neat. Always served with fresh fruits. Try to believe!

Fred Jerbis - 8€

A handcrafted Italian gin inspired by a 1946 recipe. 43 ABV, 43 botanicals. Produced in Friuli by master alchemists more than distillers.

Ginskey barrel aged - 8€

Unique in its kind. A two year aged gin in durmast. That's why it's also called botanical bourbon. Caramel and vanilla notes.

Hayman's Old Tom - 7€

Hayman's family is with no doubt the most important and long-lived English dynasty in th UK gin overview. Old Tom is that kind of gin that places itself between a London Dry and a Genever.

Monkey 47 Sloe - 9€

Sloe gins are obtained through maceration of sloe berries into distilled gin with lower alcohol content (30%). This is the best sloe in the whole universe.

GIN&TONIC

Customize your "perfect serve". First, choose the tonic and then the gin (or vice versa). Undecided? Ask to Gino! The price of a G&T is the sum of the price of the gin + the price of the tonic.

TONIC WATER

Schweppes Indian

Created in 1783 by the Swiss Johann Jacob Scheppe is one of the oldest tonics in the world.

1,5€

Tonichino

Oh yeah! We have our tonic water. Produced for GinO12 by an Italian company, it works well with every kind of gin. Agreeable and citric. From us, to you.

2€

J. Gasco

An Italian tonic resulting from its producer's obsession for quality. Its distinctive feature: a unique perlage.

2€

Fentimans

This tonic dates back to 1905: tasty, with a nice bottle, a perfect companion in a G&T, etc. What else? A bit more citric than others.

2€

Fever Tree Indian

Fever Tree has been created to respond to the lack of a premium tonic to be mixed with premium gins. Perfect for every mixing.

2€

1724

Produced in Chile, with quinine from Peru, harvested at 1724 meters above sea level. It is a bit sweeter than other tonics but much more exclusive.

3€

GIN-À-LA-CARTE

Italians do it good

A selection of the best Italian gins. Everybody knows that Italians do it good ... and often with charm and elegance.

1984 Italian dry gin -8€

We just fell in love with this gin. It really represents gin evolution. A self-exploration that throws us back in the past and comes back to the future. Finally an Italian Dry Gin with citrus marks and a "very British" character!

Buy 1984 mignon bottle (10cl) and take it home!
Enjoy it with friends! € 12

Aqva Lvce - 9€

Distilled in copper-made stills with more than half a century of honored activity, it has strong hints of juniper with spicy notes of cumin and laurel. Among the unusual botanicals: hop.

Big Gino - 6€

Big up for Gino. Gino wanted his gin of the house as in the classic Italian taverns. And here comes Big Gino! ... Powered by Roby Marton.

Clandestino - 9€

Produced by Mistico Speciale (Reggio Emilia) this is a cold compounded non-filtered gin (that's why its color is not crystal clear). Strong hints of coriander, cardamom and sweet flag (a swamp plant).

Collesi - 8€

A gin that comes from the Marches. The use of sour cherry (a sweet cherry native in the Marches) is what makes it unique, as well as the addition of wild rose, nut husk and Italian orange and lemon skins.

Giass - 9€

A gin produced by Milanese people, for Milanese people with very Milanese features. But, just as every Milanese, Giass thinks big. Distilled at Zu Plun - in northern Italy (Alto Adige) - a sip is enough to turn you into a "cumenda".

Gil - 9€

"The authentic rural gin". A Calabrian gin, both in its source and character. Severe at first but a delicate soul comes out later. Among its botanics: lemon from Rocca Imperiale and Calabrian oregano.

Giniu - 10€

The real Sardinian gin. Among the botanicals, sage, mastic (a spontaneous Mediterranean brush), fennel, strawflower (a wild flower), thyme and myrtle leaves. A terroir gin.

Kapriol - 7€

Fresh, balsamic and very balanced: juniper, mint, mountain pine and bay tree. Soft and lasting in your palate. The scent is slightly grassy and balanced by feeble bitter notes of hop.

OdeV - 9€

An Italian gin that can be defined with a single but potent adjective: elegant. Elegant is the design and the taste. It strictly adheres with the Italian stilling tradition as it is based on grape and not on grain.

Puro - 8€

Its name and its claim (back to the gin), are that kind of promises that can't be ignored. And it's definitively not! A tough and neat gin (56.8ABV): juniper, coriander, citrus.

Rivo - 9€

Handcrafted produced on Lake Como, it's the so called "foraged" because it combines 12 botanicals severely hand-harvested. Thought and produced by an unusual couple of entrepreneurs: mother and son.

Roby Marton - 10€

Recognizable by its pale yellow color, is the "Italian pride in the gin industry". Complex and well structured with hints of juniper, licorice, ginger and citrus.

Sabatini - 9€

The super-Tuscan of the contemporary Italian gin-scene. Produced near to Cortona (Arezzo), features olive leaves, thyme, verbena and sage.

Vallombrosa - 8€

A gin produced in an old abbey, built back in 1028 to host the Vallombrosa Benedictine Congregation. It's a cold compounding 100% juniper. Just monastic.

Dry gin

Dry and citric gin, majorly (but not necessarily) from the UK. For those who love the classics.

50 Pounds - 8€

To halt the "gin craze" of the 18th century, a Law of the English parliament imposed a 50-pound tax on gin sale. No one ever respected the law, and no one ever paid anything to the crown.

7D - 9€

A splendid Spanish dry gin distilled 7 times. It can boast a complex botanical bouquet: mint, thyme, lavender, tangerine, chamomile, coriander.

Beefeater 24 - 7€

If you had the luck to meet Desmond Payne, master distiller at Beefeater, you should know how much love there's behind this gin. A classic one!

Bloom 1761 - 8€

A London Dry with floral notes enriched with chamomile, pomelo and honeysuckle. The number 1761 refers to the year of founding.

Bluecoat - 8€

Produced in Philadelphia, it is a handcrafted American Dry unique for aroma and personality. Its flavor? An uncommon bitter vein.

Blue Gin - 9€

A very elegant Austrian gin carefully distilled from 27 botanicals sourced from every corner of the world. It is intensely juniper.

Blue Ribbon - 8€

An award winning French Dry obtained through a maniacal five-run distillation of 14 botanical. Besides juniper, thyme, ginger, pimento.

Boodles - 8€

A "proper English gin". Created in 1845, this is one of the ensigns of Englishness like the queen, sir Fergusson, Mr. Brown, and the cat is on(under) the table.

Bootlegger 21 - 8€

Juniper, Verbena lemon leaves, iris, and bitter orange peels. That's the secret of this American Dry produced by Prohibition Distillery, New York.

Boxer - 9€

Its unique flavor is achieved by adding to the spirit, an essence of Himalayan juniper and an essence of bergamot.

Broker's - 8€

The Broker's trademark features an English gentleman wearing a bowler hat, to underline the gin's Englishness. It is produced in a 200 years old distillery.

Burleighs London dry - 9€

Strong but fresh, with its eucalyptus and citrus marks at first. Floral and spicy marks at its end. A new respectful and authentic interpretation of our beloved "mother's ruin".

Citadelle - 9€

Its flavor is the result of a mix of 19 botanicals from all over the world. Citadelle gin is triple distilled. A good bridge for vodka drinkers.

Colonel's fox - 8€

Produced by Thames Distillery, this gin is as simple as efficient, a very traditional London Dry that seems to come straight from the Victorian age. Little appearance and a lot of matter.

Copperhead - 10€

A Belgian gin made by juniper, angelica-root, cardamom, orange and coriander. A warning to all new producers: a few but right botanicals are just enough to have a high-level final product.

Cotswold - 12€

An English (obviously a London Dry) available for sales since 2014 that - despite its young age - can boast more awards than botanicals (9 including juniper). Some fresh flavor of lavender at its finish.

Death's Door - 10€

A fine American gin made with the shortest botanical list ever. For Gino it is the perfect gin for a real Martini Dry cocktail. The driest!

Elephant - 11€

14 botanicals that capture the spirit of Africa. 15% of profits earned are donated to an NPO whose mission is the protection of the African giants from poaching.

Filliers 28 - 9€

The number 28 featuring the name, refers to the year of its foundation (1928), as well as to the number of botanicals distilled, never disclosed by the producer.

Gilpin's - 10€

A noble London (extra dry) gin that strives at becoming "the world's best-tasting (and best-looking) gin" (cit). Modesty is not their virtue.

Greenhall's - 7€

This is the historic product of G&J Greenhall, a distillery with capitol "D" in UK. If gin exists, it's also thanks to them. A curious fact: G&J has produced Bombay Sapphire on behalf of Bacardi for about 30 years.

Haswell - 8€

A full-bodied London dry - evens if it has its 47° - produced in five different distillations. It perfectly combines traditional botanicals to mint, licorice, wild fennel and savory.

Hayman's - 8€

Produced by the Hayman family - distillers since 1863 - this London Dry has a strong flavor of juniper, coriander and citrus. A soft but robust flavor.

Juniper trophy - 9€

A multi-awarded London Dry with a distinctive feature: it uses organic fair wild certified juniper, as well as coriander, angelica and savory, also organic certified.

Martin Miller's - 8€

Distillation with ten botanicals is known as the gin "distilled in England and chilled in Iceland": the blending is done with pure Icelandic water.

Mayfair - 8€

A traditional London Dry with lots of juniper and citrus notes. It owes its name to the posh upper class neighborhood of London, where this gin is distilled.

Mombasa Club - 8€

Named after a private club that the English colonizers established in the city of Mombasa, the second largest of Kenya.

N°209 - 10€

Although it is American, the juniper is from Tuscany, and bergamot is from Calabria. The "made in Italy" is not just fashion and design!

N.3 - 10€

The name refers to the number of Saint James Street where the company - Berry Bros & Rudd - stays since more than 300 years. It is a gin with capital "G".

Opihr - 8€

Opihr is a gin with a smooth, yet spicy and citric flavor. The cumin and the cardamom gave this spirit a hearty note, balanced by the agreeable grapefruit.

Oxley - 10€

A revolutionary gin produced through cold distillation. It cannot be produced in more than 240 exemplars per day. A real gin for gentlemen.

Pj- 8€

A gin from Belgium that has one important quality. It is simple and its simplicity is its main strength. Its botanical composition is juniper and... nothing else. For real #ginaddicted.

Pinkney Bend - 8€

Nine botanicals, each of them certified organic and from the USA. This gin is entirely made in the US. Including the wheat in the gin's base and even the bottle.

Plymouth - 8€

Born in 1793, Plymouth is not just a brand but a product class. Known for being the favorite of the English navy, used to have a denomination of origin till 2016.

Portobello Road N.171 - 9€

In Portobello Road n.171 (London), there is a bar in which you can drink a G&T, and visit the distillery where this London Dry is produced!

Silent Pool - 12€

The secret of this gin is the water. The blending process is in fact done by using spring water sourced from the Silent Pool, North Downs, Surrey.

Sipsmith - 10€

People at Sipsmith lobbied to have a law changed back in 2009 to allow small, craft distilling back into the United Kingdom and in London.

Star of Bombay - 11€

Distilled according to Bombay tradition into a steam still like Carterhead, it gets particular thanks to its citrus and seasoned marks. Individual features: Italian bergamot and Ecuador hibiscus seeds.

Tanqueray 10 - 8€

Owes its name to the column still n. 10 (known also as "tiny ten"), that Tanqueray has in its estate. It is the upgraded version of the classic Tanqueray.

Tanqueray Bloomsbury - 11€

A new entry in the Tanqueray family. It's all about a new version of an old family recipe that goes back to 1800. A real London Dry gin.

Tanqueray Rangpur - 9€

It is a recent entry into the product portfolio of Tanqueray. Rangpur is the name of a citrus fruit, a hybrid between orange and lemon. Super fresh!

Thomas Dakin - 10€

In 1761 - when gin was stigmatized all over the United Kingdom - Thomas Dakin had the idea of producing a premium quality gin. Historic, extraordinary, dry.

Whitley Neill - 10€

A complex, smooth, fresh and balanced gin produced in England but inspired by Africa. Baobab fruits and cape gooseberries bestow this gin a true colonial soul.

High and full proof

High ABV gin to exalt the flavor and the botanical composition of our beloved spirit. A different drink experience for real lovers.

Blackwood's

Vintage

Vol. 60° - 10€

Produced in the city of Nesting, Shetland Islands (Scotland) is produced with botanicals chosen on a seasonal basis. Smooth and balanced despite high ABV.

Edinburgh Cannonball

Navy Strenght

Vol. 58° - 10€

A "fool proof" version of the gin that gave new birth to Scottish magnificence in gin distillation, and not only single malt. Stylish, dry, full-bodied, very enjoyable.

Elephant strength Vol. 57° - 12€

If you love Elephant, the full proof edition will make you go nuts. After all we know it: gradation is a basic ingredient in order to glorify the scent of a gin. 14 botanics, 57 degrees, a unique thrill.

Plymouth

Navy Strength

Vol. 57° - 10€

The higher alcoholic content amplifies the aroma of the botanicals, while preserving the personality of a gin that is a matter of cultural proud in the UK.

Sipsmith

V.J.O.P

Vol. 58° - 10€

V.J.O.P. is the acronym of "very junipery over proof" due to its strong hints of juniper, and to an ABV which is slightly above the "proof" limit.

Contemporary style gin

Gin that future a unique botanical composition. Generally more flavorsome and smoother than the dry ones. Supplied from all over the world.

Akori - 10€

A Spanish gin with a Japanese culture. This influence results in the selection of Japanese botanicals and in the use of a neutral alcohol base from rice.

Bathtub - 10€

Produced in micro batches of 30-60 bottles, this gin is obtained through cold compounding, a technique rarely used for such a great quality product.

Bobby's Schiedam Dry - 10€

Produced in Schiedam, it is a blend of classic and wild spices from Indonesia, a Dutch colony until 1949. Main botanicals: lemon grass and ginger.

Botanic Ultra premium - 10€

A really high quality gin. Dry, fresh and with an unusual citrus note due to Buddha's hand. No worries, nothing esoteric, it's just a rare and particular kind of cedro.

Brockman's - 11€

To a super traditional list of botanicals, the master added blueberries and blackberries. There is no wonder that the payoff of this gin is "intensely smooth".

Brooklyn - 12€

There are three buddies with one copper pot still. They take three days to make 300 bottles of gin. A real cult and yet a matter of pride for people of Brooklyn.

Caorunn - 8€

A unique fusion between pure waters from the Scottish highlands, six traditional botanicals, and five Celtic ingredients bestows this gin a tonic flavor.

Dodd's - 11€

Despite its 49.9 ABV, the adding of organic honey bestows this gin a smooth and sweet personality. It is obtained throughout a double hot and cold distillation.

Edinburgh - 8€

One of the main protagonists of the growing scene of gins in Scotland. A tribute to the days in which the capital of Scotland was the cradle of European spirits.

Ferdinand Saar dry - 10€

it's hard to say being italians but germans know how to do gin...And they do it very well! Ferdinand is a complex gin obtained by distillation of more than 30 local botanicals. Amazing

Gastro Gin - 10€

An outstanding gin created by a bunch of Dutch Michelin starred chefs and produced by Onder the Boompjes. 5 kinds of pepper and fennel. One of a kind.

Granit - 9€

Bavarian. 28 botanicals. A complex production method that uses a old filtration phase through granite stones of varying sizes. Must try it!

G'Vine Floraison - 9€

Produced in the French region of Cognac, it is created through the infusion of green grape flowers, of the Ugni Blanc vine.

Gunpowder - 9€

It owes its name to the use of Gunpowder tea, a variation of a Chinese tea. Being Irish should not leave you unresponsive. Due to historic reasons, Irish people had never been "gin friendly".
